He is a graduate of the Lawrenceville School and Rutgers College.

Shahid received his dental degree from Harvard University School of Dental Medicine and his medical degree from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. He completed his general surgery and oral/ maxillofacial surgery training at New York-Presbyterian Hospital-Columbia University Medical Center. He has authored or co-authored over 50 peer reviewed journal articles and 10 book chapters. Shahid's clinical area of expertise includes facial trauma and reconstruction and orthognathic surgery. He currently serves as President elect of the New Jersey Society of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons, Chairman of the Section of Dentistry and Oral Health of the New York Academy of Medicine, and is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the American Academy of Craniomaxillofacial Surgeons.

“Origins of Orthognathic Surgery”

Orthognathic surgery is an area of OMFS that truly changes lives. While often thought European in origin, the original orthognathic surgery was performed by an American surgeon in West Virginia. The details of this surgery as well as the evolution of the most common procedures will be reviewed.

“Virtual Planning and Custom Plating in Maxillofacial Surgery”

Virtual surgical planning and patient specific implants (custom plating) are the two most significant advancements in maxillofacial surgery in last 20 years. while originally developed for orthognathic surgery, these techniques can be used for trauma, pathology, and reconstructive surgery.
